LONE HUNTER

a short dramatic thriller

www.lonehuntermovie.com

Basic Info

Lone Hunter is a dramatic short film based on a true story, directed by Pascal Leister, written by Tom Choi (Teen Wolf, Minority Report) and produced by John Heinsen, Choi and Leister in association with the Gun Violence Survivor's Foundation. Lone Hunter portrays the story of Lee (Tom Choi), an Asian American man, who under pressures from his domestic situation finally cracks in the face of blatant racism. Things turn sour when Lee, on a deer hunt, is confronted by a group of locals. In an instant, when feeling threatened, Lee shoots and kills almost everyone in the mostly unarmed group. Lone Hunter recounts deadly events that occurred on a private hunting ground in Wisconsin in 2004.

LONE HUNTER

Logline

Based on a true story. Lone Hunter is a dramatic social thriller about gun violence and racism.

Short Synopsis

Lone Hunter follows Lee, a down on his luck Asian American man. Wanting to escape the pressures of his domestic situation, Lee decides to enjoy his favorite past time - hunting.

When Lee is about to load his truck, he notices racist graffiti spray painted on his car.

Trying to calm down, Lee continues and enters the tranquil woods, where he is confronted by a group of Caucasian American hunters. Lee takes drastic and devastating measures, allegedly to protect himself.

Medium Synopsis

Lee, a down on his luck Asian-American hunter, cleans his rifle in preparation for a day of hunting. After an explosive confrontation with his wife in their kitchen over bills and his unemployment, Lee goes out to his truck to find that vandals have written 'GOOK' across the back of the lift-gate. On his way to the hunting grounds, Lee stops by a market to wash off the graffiti. Here he encounters three intimidating Caucasian hunters, who mock him.

Finally, Lee gets to relax and do what he loves best: hunting. But his peace is broken up when he trespasses onto private property. Confronted with racist taunts by the property owner and his friends, a frightened Lee takes drastic measures to escape the situation and kills almost everyone in the other party.

Lee makes it back to his car, only to encounter his best friend, who has some encouraging news, but, tragically, all too late.

Pascal Leister (Director): "As a filmmaker I was initially drawn to the unusual turn in this polarizing story that doesn't follow traditional expectations. I am particularly proud of how the lead actors portrayed the extremely devastating subject matter in such nuanced and layered performances."

Tom Choi (Writer, Actor, Producer): "Growing up Korean-America in Iowa, with a dad who was a hunter, I feel deeply connected to this story."

John Heinsen (Producer): "We had no idea when we produced this film, that events like Ferguson would thrust these uncomfortable issues to the forefront of American
